

Art Station Scholarships

Our mission is to provide every child the opportunity to participate in art classes. Since some families are not financially able to pay class fees, the Art Station has a Scholarship Fund to help. Since our funds are limited, we request that the applicant pay for 50% of the class fee. If this is not possible, we will assist the applicant in trying to secure scholarship funds from other sources. Notification of scholarship award will be made by telephone.

What is the Art Station?

The Art Station is an arts school for children ages two and up, administered by Arts Central, the non-profit arts & culture council for Central Oregon based in Bend. Classes vary in length and price, according to the age of the student. We teach ceramics, painting, drawing, and sculpture. All Art Station teachers are professional teaching artists or licensed arts specialists dedicated to providing a high quality arts curriculum, following the State Curriculum Standards for the Arts. The class catalog, Arts for all, is available on our website: www.artscentraloregon.org. Click on the Art Station tab to look at or download the catalog.

Why the Art Station gives scholarships

Arts Central's mission is to provide every child the opportunity to receive arts instruction, regardless of ability to pay. Since some families are not financially able to pay class fees, the Art Station has a Scholarship Fund, funded by donations from individuals in the community. Since our funds are limited, we request that the applicant pay for 50% of the class fee. If this is not possible, we will assist the applicant in trying to secure scholarship funds from other sources.
